City to Vote on Bond Issues Saturday

Voters of Canyon will go to the polls Saturday to vote on the proposition of issuing $60,000 for the extension of the water and sewer system, and $40,000 for additional street paving. The two propositions are separate. Voters may support either or both of these propositions. Only property owners will be allowed to vote in this election.

The need for the bond issue has been clearly set forth by Mayar W. A. Warren and members of the City Commission. It is clearly a case of absolute neccessity in voting these bonds at this time in order to take care of necessary improvements. Members of the Commission state that it will be possible to vote the bond issues without raising the tax valuations. The water and sewer bonds will be taken care of thru the increased city water receipts.

Citizens living on Eighth Avenue, or who live adjacent to this street, are very anxious that it shall be paved. The property owners on both sides will pay one-third of the cost, and the city will pay the other third. This is the same assessment that is made in all towns. The only "free" paving in Canyon or any other town came during the depression, when the government started a public works program in order to give men bread for their families.

The election will be held at the City Hall, and all qualified property owners are urged to go and vote.

Canyon Aviation Adds to Staff

G. W. Cox, Owner of the Field, Has Agency for One of Best Known Planes

George W. Cox, manager of Canyon Aviation Service at the local West Texas Field, has announced appointment of Homer Jackson, Jr., as promotion manager. Jackson transferred to West Texas State College from Wentworth Military Academy, Lexington, Mo., in 1945 and was business manager of the 1946 Le Mirage, the college year book. Jackson will be in charge of public relations in addition to other duties at the field.

The present staff at the field consists of nine members. Sherman Higdon, a returned Canyon veteran with over 2700 hours of flying, is chief pilot. Higdon started his flying career at the local airport and continued it in the Army. He was an Army instructor during the war. G. W. Webb is bookkeeper and Mrs. Webb runs the cold drink and snack bar.

The field has one of the best equipped repair shops in the section of the Panhandle. Sherman Banaster, shop foreman, is one of the seven designated maintenance examiners in this C. A. A. region. Leo Ray and Truman Segal are the other mechanics. Bud Miller is receiving veterans for on the job training.

Instruction will oe in full swing this summer. The course is being offered to college students for credit and to veterans taking flying lessons at government expense. A large class of college students, local business men, and farmers is expected this summer.

Chief Pilot Higdon proudly points out the field's excellent record of safety. More than 26,000 hours of flying without an accident or injury to students. Twenty-six thousand hours of flying conservatively represents two million five hundred thousand miles, or enough flying to circle the globe 100 times.

G. W. Cox is a dealer for Aeronca and Swift airplanes. He holds the distributorship for fifty-four Panhandle counties for the Bellance Crusair. One of these new four-passenger family planes is to be brought here from the factory soon. It will be landed within the city limits of Canyon and with its 150 HP power plant will be taxied to the square for the public to examine.

Good Gardens in County To Aid Food Program

The flourishing gardens one sees in driving over Randall County are proof of the fact that an effort is being made to produce food at home for home consumption and in so doing help cut the world food shortage.

One such garden belongs to Mrs. Joe Cox of the Ralph home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Cox says they have been eating English peas from the garden for three weeks. It is a large garden that is well cared for and has about twenty other varieties of vegetables besides the English peas. These include beans, blackeyed peas, okra, onions, peppers, tomatoes, cucumbers, canteloupes, carrots, radishes, beets, and Irish potatoes.

The Coxes live in the Tierra Blanca community about ten miles southeast of Canyon. They are milking 11 cows and raising poultry, too. At present they have about 300 laying hens, 500 pullets about six weeks old, and 200 heavy chicks that will be eaten at home or put into the freezer locker for future use.

Their orchard is producing peaches, cherries, plums, strawberries, and dewberries this year.

Rooms Needed Summer Session

College Has Greater Demand for Rooms For Men Than Are Now Available

Practically every available room that West Texas State has is now taken for the summer session.

An urgent appeal was made Tuesday to citizens of Canyon to open their homes in order to take care of more students who want to come here for the summer session.

The shortage of rooms for men is the most urgent this week. There are still a few places in sight for women.

Apartments for married couples are greatly needed.

All citizens of Canyon who can make arrangements to take care of students for the summer are urged to phone the college this week. The summer session will be open next week.

1.03 Inches Rain Falls in Canyon Tuesday Morning

Canyon received 1.03 inches of rain Tuesday. Rain during Monday night and early Tuesday morning measured .33 of an inch. Another rain fell at noon Tuesday which amounted to .70 of an inch.

An old time duster hit the Plains Monday. The wind was from the Southeast, and blew hard all day. This was the hardest duster of the year.

The rain was spotted over the Plains. While most sections received some moisture, the amounts varied. George Frank, living west of Canyon, states that only a quarter inch of rain fell. There was some hail with the rain Tuesday.

The high wind and hail did considerable amount of damage to the fruit crop, according to reports.

While the wheat may not be materially benefitted by the rain, it is hoped that enough moisture will fall to get row crop land in good condition.

Redfearn Sisters to Close Out After 30 Years in Business

MISS COLUMBIA REDFEARN

F. C. D. Middleton has bought the building on the east side of the square which has been occupied by Redfearn Sisters for 30 years. Miss Columbia Redfearn, survivor of the original partnership, states that the stock will be closed out within 30 days and the building turned over to a new tennant.

Redfearn Sisters is one of the oldest business institutions in Canyon. The business was founded by the father, W. R. Redfearn. Miss Ada Redfearn and Miss Columbia Redfearn continued the business after the death of their father. After Miss Ada married S. H. Heyser the business name remained the same. The name of the firm continued after the death of Mrs. Heyser, and Miss Columbia operated the business.

"I cannot get goods to sell, so decided to close out," stated Miss Redfearn.

Mr. Middleton has leased the building to W. E. Tucker for the Traders Recreation Hall. He will paint the building and repair the interior before turning it over to the new tennants.

Old Newspapers As Window-Mirror Polish

A household hint: Put your old newspapers to work in polishing your mirrors, windows and glassware.

Wet a piece of old newspaper, and thoroughly clean the glass. Then take a dry piece of newspaper and wipe the glass dry. This leaves a good polish on the glass, free from lint or streaks.

Dairy Breeders Win Competition

Randall County Dairymen Are Top Winners in the Show Held on Friday

H. B. Hales, Holstein breeder, and R. A. Brown, Shorthorn breeder, both from Randall county, took top honors at the cattle judging contests at Amarillo Friday. Bulls from these two herds were the only ones in the show of 90 head to reach the top for judging.

Classification of dairy cattle in the show was by score card for each breed, rather than by competition, one with the other, as in the case of the ordinary cattle show. The judges gave lectures on the placing of each class of animals.

Feature of the show was the entries of R. N. Cooke, a new dairy exhibitor. Mr. Cooke entered eleven head of Jerseys, Shorthorns and Holsteins for classification, two of which were awarded blue ribbons, four red ribbons and five white ribbons.

Amarillo Asked Run State Park

City of Canyon Is Not Interested in Taking Over the Park Property

S. B. Whittenburg, publisher of the Amarillo Times, was in Canyon the other day conferring with the City Commission on the project of taking over the Palo Duro State Park.

Due to the big debt against the land, and the fact that the State Parks Board controls the entrance, all improvements and road through the Park, the local officers deemed it unwise for a small town to jeopardize its future resources on such an uncertainity.

Mr. Whittenburg, Guy Carlander and Fancher Upshaw appeared before the Amarillo City Commission and asked that body to take over the Park.

During the past week members of the Texas State Parks Board have been contacted. They firmly state that they have no intention of giving up their claim to the land; have never considered ceasing the operation of the Park; but have no claim on the excess land. There is a debt of $295,000 against the balance of the land, amounting to $19 per acre.

Local officers state that they could see no chance for paying off this debt if the State Parks Board holds the entrance and will be able to collect all of the revenue which might be secured from the Park.

The Kansas City bank which holds the first mortgage against the land has extended the date of foreclosure on the land to July. The original date was set for June 4. A representative of the Bank was here recently and stated that it was the intention of the officers to collect their money. Their offer includes the issuance of revenue bonds against the land. However, if the revenue on the Park is taken by the State, local officers cannot understand where the city of Canyon could collect money with which to pay off the $19 per acre debt against the land.

If the city of Amarillo does not take over the Park, it is likely the Bank will have to sell the land for what it can get, and the excess acreage will be used exclusively for grazing.

Subscribers Notice

We have been asked many times the last week if the CIO strike in Canada will affect the Canyon News.

So far, no.

But no one can contemplate what will happen because of wide spread strikes. For the present we have an ample supply of newsprint. Another car is supposed to roll in July, which we are buying in spite of the fact that we are not close to the danger point.

We give this notice: Should the news print situation become desperate as it is with the daily newspapers, The Canyon News would naturally have to cut off those who buy their papers weekly, or allow their subscriptions to expire.

If your subscription is paid at least a year in advance you will have no fear of not receiving your weekly copy. In spite of the desperate situation, we are going to protect our readers as long as possible. To be safe, please have your subscription paid well in advance.

Editorials

As has been anticipated for a long time, Dr. Homer P. Rainey announced Thursday as a candidate for Governor. He has been campaigning under the guise of a sponsored program on the radio for a saw company. This has given him a considerable advantage, just as Pappy O'Daniel had when he sold his flour over the radio. We are frank to admit that at this time it looks very much like the candidate who beats Rainey will be governor. Rainey has a peculiar following. CIO will spend thousands of dollars in his race; he has the following of the leftists all over Texas, the fair-haired New Dealers who would revolutionize the world by the communistic principles for which Rainey stands. In addition to this he has a large following of religionists and the educational group which think he did not have a square deal as president of the University of Texas. As we have repeated many times, we do not know Rainey; have never seen him; but we are afraid of the doctrines which he advocates, and are afraid of many of his followers. We are convinced that Governor Coke Stevenson is probably the only man in Texas who can defeat him.

President Truman shows that he is not afraid to fight back when the future safety of the nation is at stake. His talk to the people Friday night and his demand of Congress for legislation to stop strikes against the government will go down in history as among the brave acts of our presidents. Truman minced no words. He advocated a program which should have been adopted when the war started. Unfortunately under the New Deal theories of government everything in the nation was controlled, except labor. Labor makes up the cost of all manufactured articles varying from 50% to 90%. Therefore when you refuse to put a ceiling on the pricipal cost of manufacturing you leave the gap down for raising costs of manufactured articles and increased cost of living. The President got the nation over one hurdle by his fearless handling of the railroad strike. What will he now do to John L. Lewis? What will he do to Sidney Hillman, and the other ruthless labor leaders when they attempt to hold up the people of America?

We have set up courts to handle all kinds of disputes. Differences between neighbors are usually ironed out in a rather advantageous manner. Yet when it comes to labor - management disputes we have no adequate laws, or means of settling such disputes. Costly, insane strikes are the only means left open under our supposedly civilized national life. If the present epidemic of strikes, culminating in the national catastrophe in the form of the railroad strike, results in the passage of adequate national labor laws to outlaw strikes, then the inconvenience which the public has undergone this year may not have been anguish suffered in vain. The nation's reconversion program has been knocked into a cocked hat. Billions of dollars have been lost in wages, in materials which should have been produced, and in taxes which Uncle Sam hoped that he would collect. All of this is a total loss, regardless of any increase that may come to individual workers.

Saturday of this week is a critical day for the voters of Canyon. It will be the day on which the taxpayers will give the City Commission the green light on city development. If the voters should make the unfortunate decision of opposing the two bond issues, the growth of Canyon will be retarded and the penalty by increased insurance will amount to more than the bond issue will cost. It is absolutely necessary that each and every property owner take the small amount of time to go to the polls and cast a vote on these propositions. There are always some who will vote against any bond issue. Therefore, it is imperative that those who want to see these improvements shall go to the polls.

A well known Britisher says that Americans are very contemptuous of our national weaknesses. Possibly he is right. When we go to evaluating our national greatness, we should likewise take into consideration our national weaknesses. It seems as if a lot of weakness is being developed since the war ended.

A farmer asked the other day: "What would happen to the nation if the farmers would strike for just three months during the summer?" Naturally all of America and a greater part of the world would starve if the farmers refused to raise a single crop. This might be a pretty good way to get back at the industrial workers who are striking for higher wages and spending their earnings in riotous living. Of course the farmers are not going to strike. They know too well the consequences of a prolonged strike, and what it would mean to them and to the nation. But the farmer is over the barrel: When he sells his produce, he gets what the gamblers on the city stock markets offer for his products; when he buys, he pays according to prices as handed out between management and labor. It would be a disasterous thing for the world if a farmer strike was called; but it might teach some folks a needed lesson.

In Washington they have been charging for a long while that President Truman was a little lost man. Friday night and again Saturday he swung the Big Stick like Teddy Roosevelt used to do. His opponents say that it was a last minute appeal of a small man trying to do a big job; his friends say that Truman has the ability and the national following to put over the job. One thing is pretty evident to every American: Unless the government of the United States is bigger and stronger than the labor leaders, this nation is headed for the rocks. Congress will pass legislation which prohibits any small group of men to tie up the entire resources of the nation. While small or big, Truman got the men back at work. And if the laboring men lose all of their gains of the past 13 years they have only to blame their blind following of unscrupulous and avaricious leaders.

Some Democrats are going to protest to the State Executive Committee placing the name of J. E. McDonald on the July primary ballot as a candidate for re-election to the office of Commissioner of Agriculture. McDonald openly supported Hoover, and fought the New Deal from its inception. The good Democrats may protest all they please, but there is no legal means to keep the name of McDonald off the official ballot. What the voters of Texas will do to or for McDonald in the July primary is tinknown. The State Committee is going to do everything in its power to defeat him. The brass collared Democrats have tried it in the past, but have always failed. McDonald has not hidden his political theories under a basket. He has told the people how he felt about the tinkerings of Washington, and so far the people have re-elected old Mac. We shall see what happens in July.

We hope that President Truman will now jump on the Black Market operations as hard as he did the striking railroad brotherhoods. The black market is the great national menace. It is said that 90% of all building materials are now controlled by the black market. Other lines of essential commodities are fast falling under the control of these outlawed agencies. While Truman has a battle on his hands to secure a lasting peace, the domestic problems are the most serious in the eyes of all Americans.

Dr. T. S. Painter, acting president of the University of Texas, was named permanent president of the institution on Friday. The students, or a small faction of the student body, protested. They still wanted Homer P. Rainey back as president. The Board of Regents is to be congratulated in electing a sound, substantial educator like Dr. Painter as head of the biggest and wealthiest university in the south.

Twelve make a dozen, but only a few make a million.

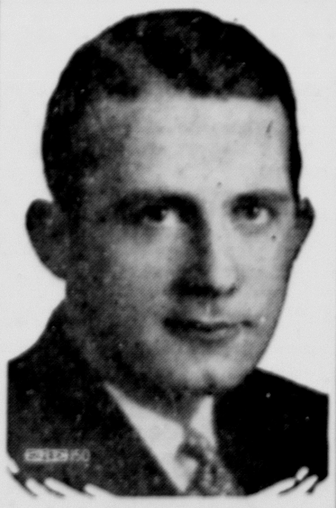
For Lieutenant Governor



ALLAN SHIVERS of Jefferson County

The father of two children, he left the Senate to volunteer in World War II, served overseas and now asks promotion to the office of Lieutenant Governor for which he is qualified, based on service and experience. Address Allan Shivers, Port Arthur, Texas.

Many boys and girls in Canyon are receiving their high school diplomas this week. While the armed forces may take many of the boys before long, every graduate should resolve right now to get all of the college training he can. Many are tempted by the abnormally high wages of today. These high wages will not last forever. When the depression comes, men and women who are not trained for something better than manual labor will be the first to feel the impact. The high wages of 1946 will not prevail in 5 or 10 years. The world will not overlook the fact that the graduate of 1946 refused to improve his mind by necessary college training. You graduates in Canyon are fortunate in living in a college town. You are overlooking the greatest opportunity of life unless you take full advantage of your opportunities.

Beauford Jester takes a swing at Dr. Rainey. Jester was a member of the board of regents and knows the internal affairs of that great institution. He denounces the administration of Rainey, and the turmoil he brought to that institution. He challenges Rainey to state his position on his theory of government, as advocated by his friends in the CIO, who take their orders from Moscow, via Sidney Hillman.

It is inconceivable to us to think that liberty-loving Texans, with the richest history of any state in the union, should consider for a moment falling under the spell of a candidate for governor who takes his political theories from the Russian-born immigrant, Sidney Hillman, head of CIO.

While the wheat crop is badly cut by continued dry weather, farmers are hopeful that there will be sufficient rain to raise a good feed crop. Feed is high and scarce as a result of last year's crop failure. Another failure would be a great handicap to the stock industry of Texas.

Clark Announces Faculty Turnover In Music Division

With one instructor departing on leave of absence and another returning to resume his former position, the music division will necessarily undergo several important changes in faculty assignments next fall, says Dr. Wallace R. Clark, head of the department.

Beginning next semester, Houston Bright, instructor in public school music and voice will be enrolled in the University of California at Los Angeles. When he has completed work on his Bachelor of Music degree, probably by September, 1947, he plans to rejoin the department.

Although he was here for a while last fall, Mr. Bright was not discharged from the Army until February. He earned the B. A. and M. A. degrees from West Texas State and has held his present position since 1940.

Millard J. Newman, band director before he left for the Navy two years ago will have charge of the Buffalo Bandsters next year. After receiving his B. A. degree from Iowa State Teachers College, Prof. Newman taught here two years.

The present director of the band, Glenn A. Truax, will teach the string sections for both the college and demonstration school. These courses have been taught this year by Herschel Coffee, who is also professor of economics.

In addition to his duties as teacher of courses of stringed instruments, Prof. Truax will take over part of the vocal work that has been under Mr. Bright and will sponsor the Variety Show.

All choir and chorus instruction will be continued next fall.

Piano students will be offered courses taught by Misses Pauline Brigham, Mary Lee Gunstead, and Matilda Guame.

The gift, a public address system, was presented by Bill Knighton, president of the senior class. The high school's acceptance was given by Mr. Savage. In this speech, Mr. Savage stated that this was one of the nicest and most expensive gifts ever given by a senior class. This system will be installed sometime during the next school term.

Army Plans School Work in Training

Seek to Prevent Break in Studies of Youth.

WASHINGTON. — The army is making plans to assure the least possible interruption in scholastic studies of youths during their year of service under the proposed universal training program, it was learned recently.

Officials hope the plans will counteract the opposition of education groups.

The army's aim would be to provide its trainees with the educational facilities that would be available if they were holding down a full time job in an American city.

For illiterates, schooling to the fourth grade level would be part of the training. For all others, education would come outside regular training hours.

In addition to the extension courses, the correspondence courses of the armed forces institute would be available. These include the institute's own 250 courses, plus about 700 courses offered by 85 colleges and universities.

At each post an education officer and a staff of professional educators would provide trainees educational guidance. They would advise trainees of college entrance and scholarship requirements.

At the request of educational institutions, they would give college entrance and scholarship examinations. They also would be prepared to give proven aptitude tests to assist trainees in choosing future courses of study or vocations.

To assist its educational program, the army contemplates appointment of a committee of nationally recognized leaders in elementary, secondary, vocational and higher education. This committee would include representatives of labor, management, the learned professions and agriculture.

Hope of Golden Atom Era Is Given Knockout Blow

CHICAGO.—The golden age of atomic energy is many years in the future, Dr. Thorfin Hogness, director of the atomic bomb project's chemistry division at the University of Chicago, told the City Club of Chicago at a meeting in the La Salle hotel.

The reason why, Dr. Hogness said, is the cost of converting uranium into the element U235 and transforming that into energy is vastly greater than the cost of coal to create an equivalent amount of electric energy.

"Nature already has given us plenty of cheap fuel for hundreds of years to come," Dr. Hogness said, "so from the power standpoint alone, atomic energy will bring no great change. At best, U235, for a long time to come, can become only a high priced premium fuel to be used on submarines, battleships, colossal airplanes, and other specialized devices and in extremely inaccessible locations."

You'll Top Grandpa's Age By at Least 15 Years

LOS ANGELES. — The average American will live to be 15 years older than his grandfather, Dr. Samuel M. Levine of Harvard medical school told the 15th annual symposium on heart disease.

"With the life-age now at 65 years, an increase of 15 years in the last 50 years," he said, "the medical profession is forced to fight against society's No. 1 killer — heart disease."

He explained that the increased expectancy made a larger part of the population older persons, who are more susceptible to heart disease.

"Individual doctors cannot be called upon for research against the disease older people are susceptible to; we must have a nationally financed study."

Dr. Levine proposed the money for research be raised from a fund-collecting "National Health Day" on the current President's birthday.

Medici Skeletons Are Found in Florence Church

FLORENCE, ITALY. — Skeletons of the two famous Medici brothers —Lorenzo the Magnificent and Juliano—were taken from their 15th century graves beneath the Church of San Orenzo to the Anthropological Institute here.

They will be returned to the tombs when repairs on the church are completed.

The skull of Juliano has a gaping hole and 19 bone fractures are visible on the right side of the skeleton. He is said to have been assassinated while kneeling at the Altar of Duomo.

Trick for Trixie

By ETHELYN PARKINSON

McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

THE moment Anne Warner and I entered our apartment we knew something was wrong. Trixie, Anne's cute little cousin, "had been and gone."

"What do you suppose she's absconded with, this time?" I demanded. "Your hat, or my new dress?"

"Both, probably." Anne said grimly.

We hurried to look. "My dress is gone!" I cried.

"My hat's here, but—oh, my gloves and purse!" wailed Anne.

We had heavy dates, and the evening was half ruined. We faced each other gravely. "Anne," I said, "I'm sorry. But you remember I didn't want to take Trixie in. Now I guess it's her move, or mine."

Anne's eyes filled. "Peggy, I can't ask Trix to go. Her mother would go crying to mine, and there'd be a big Warner family row."

"But we can't go on like this."

"I know. I'll find a way to make Trixie leave us. Just give me a little more time."

We were home before Trixie arrived. She came in gay as a bird. "Hi, gals! How do you like my outfit?" She pirouetted about the floor in my dress, swinging Anne's bag and gloves. "Did I ever get compliments on this dress! Hal thought it was simply super!"

"Hal!" Anne and I exclaimed together.

"Why, sure. Hal Ormsby."

Hal was a boy friend of Anne's—at least he'd tried to be. Anne didn't like him very much. No one did. He was rich and sissy and spoiled and, besides, Anne was interested elsewhere. But the point was that Trix Warner had begun beau-snitching!

She pouted prettily. "You're not jealous, are you, Anne?"

Anne amazed me by looking stern. "Well, after all, he's my friend."

"But he'd never really seen me, until tonight. He came up to ask you for a date and we got talking, and he just forgot. I'm sorry you're angry," Trixie smiled. But she wasn't sorry.

I decided to keep out of it. But I certainly couldn't see that Anne was solving our problem. For a month Trixie had a wonderful time. She borrowed our prettiest things for her dates, and all we heard was "Hal, Hal, Hal!"

One day Anne asked sweetly, "But has he taken you to meet his mother?"

"Why, no. Why should he—yet?"

A week later Trixie told us triumphantly, "I'm invited to meet Hal's mother Sunday afternoon."

Anne smiled sweetly. "Well, try to impress her, or that will be the end for you and Hal, darling."

Trixie went shopping Saturday afternoon. But all her purchases were eclipsed when Anne came home with the hat. It was made of feather flowers in shades that no one, Trixie least of all, could resist. Anne made a great fuss over it. I'd never seen her so enthusiastic. "I'm wearing it to dinner tomorrow evening," she said. "It's an original. In fact, it was made to order."

"Aren't you wearing the new hat?" I asked Anne, Sunday afternoon.

"Oh, no. Not until tonight."

Outside the apartment I said, "Anne, if you really care so much for that hat you know Trixie will surely wear it."

Anne looked at me innocently. "Now, Peggy, Trix knows I'm counting on it."

I went to a show and dinner. I got home at nine, and Anne was there. "Well," I asked her, "who wore the hat?"

"Trixie did."

I blew up. "Anne, you haven't done a thing about her! I'm as disgusted with you as I am with her!"

"Sh!" Anne whispered. "She's coming."

Trixie was in a fury. "Did you ever meet her?" she demanded of Anne.

"Hal's mother? Sure," Anne said.

Trixie's eyes glittered. "I'll bet she didn't like you. I could see her stiffen the minute she heard the name Warner!"

"Did that make any difference to Hal?"

"Did it! If you'd seen him hustle me out! He broke our date for tomorrow and didn't hear me when I said I'd be free Tuesday." She flounced into the bedroom and began hauling out her luggage, emptying drawers—packing!

Anne watched anxiously. "Trixie, are you going somewhere?"

"You bet! I'm getting out of this town, where I can meet men you haven't met first!" She was off.

"Anne — your hat!" I gasped. "Call her back."

Anne laughed. "Oh, let her keep it."

"But it's an original. Made to order—"

"For Hal's mother, last year," Anne giggled. "I bought it at a rummage sale for twenty-five cents!"

Here's the Solution

To the Case of the Missing Dahlias

What has happened to the dahlias?

The question has been asked over and over again by students and visitors. The lovely dahlia bed—a spot of beauty for many years—has been dug up because of a lack of help to care for it.

The space south of the Administration Building has been replanted with zinnias. It will probably be broken up into smaller plots later in the summer and planted with a variety of flowers.

The red cannas that have long been the pride of W. T. students are still in the same places—around the fountain in front of the Administration Building and at the east and west ends. The beds have been dug up, fertilized and replanted, and the bright red flowers will again furnish a lovely sight during the summer and fall.

A great deal of work is spent during the year caring for the trees, shrubs, and grass. In the spring, extra men and boys are hired to keep the grounds beautiful. A power mower is used to trim the expansive lawns that surround the buildings. However, the mower has recently broken down and is out of use, and the lawn-mowing job is slowed down, as it must now be done with a hand machine. The water supply for the grounds comes from the college well.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE

The diner, who had done himself extremely well, called for the manager of the restaurant.

"Do you know," he asked genially, "that I dined here five years ago, and you had me thrown out because I couldn't pay?"

"Indeed sir?" laughed the manager. "Well, well; please accept my apologies."

"Don't mention it," laughed the diner. "Do it again."

Jimmy told his mother he was going to be a preacher when he grew up. Upon being asked why, he replied:

"I'll have to go to church anyway, and it's much easier to stand up and yell than to sit still and listen."

Review Features Panhandle Birds

Hawkins Writes Article For Current Edition Of Historians' Magazine

Panhandle Plains bird lore is discussed by Arthur S. Hawkins, a competent game technician, in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Review just issued. The current Review is for 1945, having been delayed by wartime conditions in the printing industry. The 1946 Review will be ready soon, according to Dr. L. F. Sheffy, editor.

Mr. Hawkins did research for the article while stationed at Amarillo Army Air Field. When inducted into the Army in 1941, he was head of the section of wildlife experimental areas in the Illinois Natural History Survey. He has identified and listed scores of birds found on the plains. Most of these were found in trees—in towns, along watercourses, along the Canadian river, and in the Palo Duro Canyon. But building of lakes to conserve water greatly increased the bird potential, Mr. Hawkins noted.

Other articles in the current Review include "History of D. B. Gardner's Pitchfork Ranch of Texas," by Margaret A. Elliott; "Willis Day Twichell, Civil Engineer," by Mrs. Alice Dugan Gracy, and "The Susan J. Allen Collection," by Charles Boone McClure.

Mrs. Gracy, a resident of Austin, has been working on a history of Lamb County. Miss Elliott, who lives at Spur, is a teacher in the Hereford Schools. Her article was written under the direction of Dr. Ima C. Barlow, professor of history of West Texas State College. Mr. McClure is assistant director of the Plains Museum.

The cover design of the Review is the work of Harold Bugbee, Clarendon artist who obtained the large Susan J. Allen Collection for the Museum. The volume contains a number of book reviews and membership lists of the Historical Society. It is annotated and indexed.

WT Students Attend First Box Supper

One of the big events of the past week was the box supper held Tuesday night at the Student Union Room. About 8 o'clock, with Mr. Morris acting as auctioneer, the beautifully decorated boxes were put on sale.

Suppers sold for from $1 to $4.25, and the total receipts of the venture, $68.40, went to the annual fund. The boys sought out their partners, and after supper the athletic awards were announced by Mr. Morris.

Those receiving awards for intramural basketball were Carroll Vaughan, Billy Cox, L. T. White, Jack Cooper and Dwayne Stewart. Knighton received an award for coaching the winners, the junior team. Volleyball girls who received awards were Billye Gill, Maxine Barnard, Beverly Beck, Peggy Gamble, Sue White, Thelma Bauer, and Carrie Marie Dawdy. It was announced that the W. T. Burble Sox had won the college softball tournament in the final game that afternoon with Terrill Hall. Mr. Morris recognized the various organizations and noted their achievements. This was the last get-together of the current school year, and the "good ole spirit" was manifested during the hilarious evening.

Nowadays it isn't a question of whether or not the train is on time. It is just a matter of whether or not it is going in the right direction.

Net Toppers in League Lead

W. T. High Takes Ball Title—Girls Name All-Tournament Players

Intramural activities for the spring semester are being completed this week with the final games in the boys' volleyball tournament. At present the Net Toppers, managed by A. M. Smith, are leading the field with three straight wins.

West Texas High finished first in the recently completed baseball league. The W. T. High team, coached by Hap Rogers, edged out Terrill Hall while Hill Courts, managed by Douglas Groom, ended up in third place. Other baseball teams and their managers were as follows: Buffalo Courts Freshmen, Sid Levy; Stafford Hall, Bob Heard; and Dowlen House, Red Weatherly.

Bill Stockman and Larry Sanders assisted Coach Leslie Van Meter in the handling of these intramural contests.

Spirited voting this week by girls of the P. E. classes, to select an All-Star volleyball team, has brought girls intramurals to an end. The Wolfs, piloted by Jessie Wolf, won the bitterly contested volleyball tournament. Girls voted on the All-Star team are: Charlene Giesecke, Jean Covington, Rowena Fulgham, Martha Hanna, Thelma Stamps, and Louise Records.

An All-Star team from the basketball tournament which was won by Mary Cherry's Destroyers, has been announced. Margie Bauer, Joy Felts, Betty Starnes, and Martha Hanna won the forward positions, while Joyce Meador, Grace Aaron and Jessie Wolf captured the guard positions.

Earlier in the season, the baseball team captained by Frances Turner won in the league play.

Miss Cross, physical education instructor, stated, "We plan to have plenty of recreation here this summer and next fall. Open plunges, picnics, volleyball and baseball will be combined with hikes and tumbling to make a varied and interesting program. Our present tumbling team is very good and prospects for the team next year are excellent."

SMART ALEC

A young lady walked into the post office, stopped at the wicket and asked for a three-cent stamp. The clerk was not in a very good humor, and he snarled, "This is the information window; can't you read?"

The lady proceeded to the proper place, purchased her stamp, and returned. "You say this is the information window?"

"Yup."

"Well, if I mail this letter tonight, will it be in New York tomorrow?"

"Sure."

"That's funny. It's addressed to Indianapolis."

SOME DO AND SOME DON'T

"Oh, what a strange-looking cow!" exclaimed the sweet young Alpha Phi from Chicago. "But why hasn't she any horns?"

"Well you see," explained the farmer, " some cows is born without horns, and never had any, and others shed theirs, and some we dehorn, and some breeds ain't supposed to have horns at all. There's a lot of reasons why some cows ain't got horns, but the reason why that cow ain't got horns is because she ain't a cow—she's a horse."

"At last I've been promised a part in that new play."

"Fine! What is it?"

"I'm to play the part of a man who's been married 40 years."

"Too bad you didn't get a speaking part."

Exes Nose Out Future Buffs In Practice Game; Brookfield Stars

West Texas State basketball futures did not drop much in the fans' market when the exes nosed them out last week, 44-42.

Price Brookfield, All-American and professional star, fired the long-distance basket, which broke a deadlock half a minute before the end of the game. The tie had been engineered by Eugene Keating, classy 1943 freshman just back from military service.

Joe Fortenberry, another W. T. All-American of more than a decade ago, played part of the game and made 4 points. J. W. Malone was out with flu and his absence was noticeable. Miller was high point man for the future Buffs, with 10 counters. But Brookfield, with 19 points, was the standout.

The exes led the Buffs, 25 to 18, at halftime. The oldtimers' know-how was a factor as they battled two former W. T. freshman stars, Boyce Box and Metz LaFollette.

Demand for Rooms Unusually Great For This Season

Room reservations for the next long session of West Texas State College are already at a new high, according to dormitory supervisors. Cousins Hall already has a waiting list and a similar one exists for the new annex to Randall Hall.

Reservations are being made much earlier than in former years. Stafford Hall for men has a waiting list for both summer and fall session. There are still a few vacancies in most of the halls for the summer session opening June 4, however.

Lists of reservations for the new veterans' dormitory are accumulating at the college business office. This unit, housing 100 men, is expected to be completed at or near the opening of the fall session.

Scheduled for completion at the same time is the new all-college cafeteria, which will seat 500 persons.

Air Force Gives Shop Machinery

$18,622 in Equipment Being Transported Here From Childress Field

Shop machinery valued by the Army Air Forces at $18,622.50 has been given West Texas State College by the Air Material Command.

President J. A. Hill, in announcing the gift, said the machinery was at the Childress Army Air Field. It is being brought to the campus and set up in the former NYA shops by Prof. John Gillis, head of the department of industrial arts.

Included in the list of machines are drill presses, mortisers, jig saws, shapers, band saws, planers, buffers, furnace, sheet metal binders, and a 75-ton hydraulic press. These machines will be used in farm shop and sheet metal courses, Prof. Gillis said.

This acquisition is one of the largest made to the college, which has a number of others pending.

Another large group of machines will be brought from the Dalhart Army Air Field.

WARNING

"Love at first sight" is romantic
And fine in a movie or book,
But cold, hard reality warns us
It's best to take one more look.

The girl who marries into a wealthy family has one advantage. Her husband will probably never tell her that she can't cook like mother did—because chances are his mother was never a cook.

A busy man doesn't worry about his age, because he doesn't count his years until he has nothing else to count.

Our morern girls have a real problem when they try to buy clothes that can reveal and conceal at one and the same time.

The housing situation is getting terrific. A couple can't even live with the parents nowadays, because the parents are living with their folks.

Uncle Sam should import some of those German generals; teach them a little deportment; then deport them.

When you go to a hotel for a change and a rest nowadays, the bellboys get the change and the hotel gets the rest.

BOYCE HOUSE "Gives You Texas"

Texas has had many colorful figures on the bench—like Judge Roy Bean, the saloonkeeper, and Emanuel Dubbs, the buffalo hunter—but history has rather slighted Colonel Smithers (we'll call him that), who was justice of the peace at Fort Griffin when that town was the liveliest spot on the frontier.

Justice Smithers was a former army officer. He held the rank of colonel during the War Between the States, but with the close of hostilities he had to step back to his permanent rank as lieutenant. He came to Fort Griffin for a tour of duty shortly after the war and after a time resigned and settled down near the fort to make a home.

The judge was well regarded in the community and when the citizens came to see the need of a justice of the peace he was elected to office without opposition—and held the post until the fort was abandoned and the Griffin 'Flat' became a country village.

The ex-colonel, so say those who knew him, was one of 'the boys,' always ready to take part in a game of chance, or go the rounds of the saloons—and more than once, after a festive night, he appeared on his bench in the morning sporting black eyes and a swollen countenance. But this didn't, in the least, interfere with his administration of justice.

Sitting back in his chair, he would assess a fine on his comrades of the night before without the slightest hesitation, notwithstanding their looks of astonishment and their muttered comments. But they knew better than to protest too openly for the Colonel used more than law books to back up his decisions.

He kept in the pigeon holes of his desk—prominently placed so that all might behold—an ornate brass-barreled horse pistol and a long-bladed Turkish knife, and when the the effects of too much firewater made some of his defendants obstreperous, Smithers emphasized his decisions by letting his right hand rest near the butt of the pistol or the haft of the knife. It seemed that the weapons—commonly called "The Colonel's peacemakers"—had the desired effect for the justice never had to use them. The big horse pistol became almost legendary.

As one cowboy described it:—"The Colonel mows prairie grass for his hen nests with that gun. He just fills it to the muzzle with bird shot, then steps down into a gulch so that his arm comes on a level with the grass, then gives a sweeping motion as he pulls the trigger and down goes the grass."

Anyhow, such stories were told that none among those coming up for arraignment ever dared question the judge's ruling—especially after getting a glimpse of him sittin on the bench picking his teeth, as he sometime did, with that terrible Turkish knife.

EXCUSABLE

"But the officer says that while you were in a drunken state you tried to climb a lamp post."

"Yes, I did, but three crocodiles had been following me about all night, and they were getting on my nerves."

"Mrs. Jones certainly is a woman of rare foresight."

"Really?"

"Yes, she always makes her husband angry before sending him out to beat the carpet."

Dorothy Evans To Preside Over Pi Omega Sorority

As their leader for the 1946-47 school term, girls of Pi Omega sorority have chosen Dorothy Evans, sophomore from Panhandle.

Other club officers elected during a meeting at Randall Hall Tuesday evening include Mary Evelyn Foster, junior from Borger, vice-president; Bobby Storey, junior from Dalhart, recording secretary; Johnnie Cresens, freshman from Amarillo, corresponding secretary; June Russell, sophomore from Follett, treasurer; and Trixie Travis, another sophomore from Follett, reporter, and Fayrene Bolton, Junior from Ballinger, pledge captain.

After heading activities of the group this year, Polly Winstead, who will be graduated in August, is retiring from the presidency. Mrs. C. W. Freed will replace Mrs. A. M. Meyer next year as sponsor.

Shirley Byars Leads Gamma Phi '46-'47

Miss Shirley Byars, junior from Canyon, was elected president of Gamma Phi Sorority when the club met Monday, May 13, to elect officers for 1946-47.

Other officers chosen were Vice-president, Mary Hodges of Canyon; secretary, Beatrice Clark of Canyon; treasurer, Carlyn Wimberly of Canyon; reporter, Margaret Lair of Canyon; parliamentarian, Mary Ruth Russell of Hereford; pledge captain, Sada Ruth Hoskins of Spearman; and co-pledge captain, Jeannette Barnhill of Turkey.

DOPE WAS WRONG

"I suppose, Uncle Jim, you remember a good deal about the politics of the early days?"

"Well, I never tuk much int'rest in pollytics, but I kin recollect when John C. Freemont was 'lected President."

"Freemont! Why Fremont was never elected."

"He wun't? Well, now, that gets me. I heerd a leadin' speaker talk the night 'fore 'lection, an' he said if John C. Freemont wun't 'lected the country would fall to ruin an' everybody would have to shut up shop. Course I didn't take the papers; but noticin' thet things went on 'bout same as before, I calculated John won. So he wun't 'lected? Well, 'byjinks! Thet gits me!"

Flight Training Here Continues

College Credit Given; Veterans Can Fly in Their G. I. Program

With hopes for the arrival of a new post-war Bellanca and plans for a new intensified aviation program, G. W. Cox, owner of the Canyon Airport, announces that training activities there will continue on a regular schedule throughout the summer.

A new training program, sponsored and paid for by the Veterans Administration, provides an opportunity for any veteran, man or woman, who wants to fly, whether or not he is in college, to earn his private or commercial license or instructor's standing. In many other states such a program is well under way, and it will probably be begun here within a few weeks.

Ground Work Required

While previously it has been possible to obtain a license without a great deal of study of ground work, the new program requires thirty hours of ground school. For this purpose, a new ground school room has been installed at the field. A permanent concrete floor of 46000 square feet has been added in the big hangar.

The Bellanca, which has been ordered for some time, is a family-size plane with a 900-lb. load limit, intended for commercial and family use. It has a 150 H. P. motor and a speed limit of 169 mph—more than twice as powerful as any other of the four planes now at the field. Mr. Cox plans to exhibit the new plane to townspeople as soon as it arrives.

Students Own Planes

Four privately owned planes are now at the airport. Two of them both PT-17 Stearmans, belong to college students, Omer Jordan and Taylor.

About thirty students are taking flying lessons at the field. Seventeen of these are veterans. Several private licenses have been earned recently.

At present Sherman Higdon is the only instructor at the airport.

Mr. Cox has plans to move the airport to a location just north of the campus within the next year. The move is being delayed because of the shortage and prices of labor and materials.

"Ah, Professor Small, I hear your wife has presented you with twins. Girls or boys?"

"Well, I believe one is a boy and the other is a girl, but it may be the other way round."

The pupil was asked to paraphrase the sentence: "He was bent on seeing her.

The pupil wrote: "The sight of her doubled him up."

Go Slowly On Home Building

Expert Sees 18-Month Delay On New Houses; Average Cost Much Higher

WASHINGTON.—The government is out of the way on your new home-building plans, but don't tack a "for sale" sign on the old diggings just yet. Even if you're a tenant, better hang on to the lease for 18 months or so. It will take that long for builders even to make a good dent in America's new-home demand.

So many persons need just a decent shelter—let alone a postwar dream home—that the builders are likely to be swamped in a nylon-counter rush. Stay out of it for a while.

That's the advice of W. Wadsworth Wood, the publisher of "The Small Homes Guide," a periodical which has kept a running survey on what Americans want in their post-war homes and what they're likely to get.

Other Predictions.

With construction controls revoked as of October 15, Mr. Wood offers these other findings for home-hungry Americans:

First, the house of your future will cost about $9,000 on the average.

Second, it will be a living machine de luxe.

Reports to "The Small Homes Guide" from prospective buyers show that 47 per cent—nearly half—expect to spend between $4,000 and $6,000. Before the war the average cost was a little under $6,000.

Here comes the blow: Mr. Wood believes that the prewar $6,000 home may cost up to $9,000, a jump of 50 per cent. Government officials see a smaller but still sizable increase—about one-third, attributable mainly to steeper labor costs. That would make the $6,000 prewar house cost $8,000.

Mr. Wood, in an interview, said the one-third increase might be about right in the south and some other areas where lower wages and mild climate permit cheaper construction. But, he said, for most cities the government's guess is too conservative.

Furthermore, the $9,000 estimate does not include the lot. Add on another 10 or 15 per cent for that.

The chance of federal ceilings to control residence prices is nearly zero.

The office of price administration talks about asking congress for authority to clamp them on, but the watchword on Capitol Hill is "de-control."

Price-Data Help Likely.

Reconversion Director John W. Snyder asks as a substitute that the housing and pricing agencies advise prospective home buyers how much to pay. Even this gets up the dander of construction men. An "advised price," they say, is tantamount to a ceiling.

Likeliest substitute is a system by which some federal office in each city will keep sample lists of houses which have sold for a fair price. By looking at the list you will be able to decide whether the price asked of you is in line.

Seven out of 10 families either expect to build a new house or improve the old one, Mr. Wood's surveys show. About 12 million want to build, and half of these have been putting money aside.

Compared with that demand, the 500,000 homes which builders expect to start in the next year are a drop in the bucket.

"If you are decently housed now, sit tight for a time," Mr. Wood advises. "If your rental lease expires in six months, better renew it for another full year.

"A year and a half is not too much time for thoughtful planning and careful working out of your family's requirements. There are countless houses that could have been good houses if a few extra months had been used for planning."

Big Dirigibles May Pump Ballast From the Ocean

CLEVELAND. — Huge trans-oceanic airships of the future may be able to pump ballast from the ocean while traveling at top speed high above the water, says Navy Capt. C. V. S. Knox of the Goodyear Aircraft corporation.

Hydrogen-filled dirigibles have been equipped to "valve off" enough gas to counteract the loss of weight of fuel consumption, but the helium in American airships has been too valuable to discharge, he said.

The naval officer reported a "blimp" has been cruising over Lake Erie for several weeks taking on ballast via an electric pump inclosed in a torpedo-shaped "fish" trailing in the water. The experiments have been successful, he said.

Red Cross Is Spending $25,000,000 in Europe

PARIS, FRANCE.—The American Red Cross will spend 25 million dollars in American - occupied Germany, France, Holland and Belgium during the 1945-'46 fiscal year, Chairman O'Connor said. If the total, 10 million dollars will be spent for civilian relief. June 1 had been set as the date for closing army Red Cross centers exclusive of those in the occupation area.

Strategic Withdrawal

By FORREST KLEINMAN

McClure Syndicate—WNU Features.

PRIVATE BOSKOWITZCH grinned shyly as the seamy face of Sergeant O'Hara appeared over the shallow emplacement where he lay with his light machine gun. "What the devil d'ya want now?" barked Sergeant O'Hara.

Bosko sighed. The sergeant didn't look happy. Bosko had noticed this before whenever he had dealings with the sergeant. Yet the sergeant was a fine, good man. Wasn't it this same Sergeant O'Hara who had given him the wondrous book of knowledge now resting in his pocket—the book of Webster by means of which he spoke American even as Sergeant O'Hara?

Bosko waved a rock-scarred paw at the skirmish line of gray-green figures advancing across the valley below. "Look, Sarge—Germans! But I no shoot. I wait like you tell." He fondled the grip of the machine gun happily.

"Keep your hands off that gun, ya big ape!" snarled the sergeant. "We ain't here to fight the whole German army. We're just an outpost, see?"

Bosko's grin faded. "I no understand. All the time I am at Camp Roberts the lieutenants he say, 'Kill.' The captains he say. 'Kill.' The general he even write an order. But now when I see Germans I cannot shoot him."

How Bosko ever got into the army had long been a mystery and rich source of profanity to Sergeant O'Hara. He'd recommended a section VIII the first week the big Pole joined his squad, but the company commander had said that anyone who could pronounce a name like Boskowitzch couldn't be a 4-F.

"Look, Bosko," Sergeant O'Hara said with great patience. "Those Krauts don't know we're here, so we ain't gonna tell 'em. And by the time they get here we ain't gonna be. It's what is known as a strategic withdrawal. D'ya understand?"

Bosko stuffed a paw inside his field jacket and brightened as he brought forth a dog-eared dictionary. "Mr. Webster tell me. How you spell this words—strategic withdrawal—Sarge?"

"Ditch that dictionary," roared Sergeant O'Hara, "and try this on your ivory dome. We're going to beat it, scram, vacate. You wait here for ten minutes to cover us in case they start coming up, then pack up your gun. I'll meet you with the rest of the squad in the edge of the woods behind the hill. Now d'ya get it?"

Sergeant O'Hara snaked over the ridge. A half dozen mud-encrusted G.I.s were waiting for him on the reverse slope. "What's up Sarge?" asked Sergeant Murphy, his five-by-five assistant squad leader.

"They're getting ready to serve liverwurst mit sauerkraut on the other side," said Sergeant O'Hara briefly. "But we ain't leaving any."

"What about Bosko?"

"He's to cover us till we get to the woods. He'll meet us there."

They had been waiting in the woods about twenty minutes when the shooting began. Sergeant O'Hara sat on a log and listened to the crack of mausers and the rrrrrip-rrrrip of machine pistols punctuated by the tat-tat-tat-tat of a light machine gun. "Ya got to admit that eight-ball don't need a dictionary to make a machine gun talk pretty."

"Yeah," said Sergeant Murphy. "Too bad he hasn't got a chance."

Sergeant O'Hara squirmed. "Well, he asked for it. He had plenty of time to pull out. And if it had to be anyone, it might as well be him. He's been nothing but a headache ever since we got him. We couldn't help him now even if we tried."

"Yeah."

"Then what in thunder are we waiting for?" roared Sergeant O'Hara.

When a famous war correspondent visited the field hospital a few days later, he paused at the cot of Sergeant O'Hara. "Nice work, Sergeant. I hear that you and your friend are in for the D.S.C. for holding up the Krauts long enough so we could get some artillery on them when they tried that attack on our flank the other day."

"Don't call that big ape no friend of mine," growled Sergeant O'Hara, waving his cast at the bulk that protruded from both ends of an adjacent cot. "If it hadn't been for him, I'd be safe and sound in my foxhole right now. And if they want to do something nice for me, mister, they can keep the hardware and just send this eight-ball back home.

"Here I am with one squad sitting on this hill when the whole darned German army starts coming up the valley. What would any smart soldier do? Naturally I call for a strategic withdrawal. It'd'a worked fine, too, only what does this big ape do? He attacks!

"Well, there's nothing for me to do then, but go back and save the machine gun which costs the Government a hundred and twenty bucks and is charged to me. And what does he say, as soon as we've got the Krauts under control? 'Sarge, how you spell this words—strategic withdrawal?' "

Private Boskowitzch turned one saucer-blue eye from the dog-eared Webster that rested comfortably on his chest, and with a shy grin said: "Say, Sarge, how you spell the word 'baloney'?"

After 40 the bulk of your troubles are in your tummy.

Swimmers Schedule Repeat of Pageant For Amarillo Field

Crowning climax for a very successful performance is what observers have termed the invitation for the "Old Swimming Hole" cast to reproduce their colorful water pageant as part of a Memorial Day program at Amarillo Army Air Field Thursday evening.

Despite frigid temperatures that threatened to halt staging of the show, swimmers played Monday night, May 20, to an audience of well over 500. This was a repeat of the "matinee" performance given Saturday afternoon for high school seniors from nearby towns.

Special scenery, loud-speaker introduction of personnel, and several other new features will mark the final production in the large pool at the field.

The many weeks required for an all school pageant of this kind have been the parting gift of Mrs. Oma Ford, women's physical education teacher, who has directed the show. After working this summer as manager and instructor at Baker Swimming Pool, Mineral Wells, she will travel with her husband, a construction engineer for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Graduated from West Texas State with a B. S. degree, Mrs. Ford has instructed here since 1942.

" . . . and I've enjoyed every moment of it," she adds, "because for me, teaching is fun."

Teacher, making plans for a special program on February 22, inquired of her class:

"Children, what sets Washington apart from other people? Why, for instance, should we celebrate his birthday more than mine?"

"Oh, I know," rejoined a bright youngster in the third row, "he never told a lie."

The city cousin was being introduced to country culture. The intricacies of the incubator were explained in detail.

"You understand, don't you?" she was asked.

"Yes," she replied hesitantly. "But where does the hen sit?"

"How do you like your new washing machine, Mrs. Perkins?"

"Taint no good. Every time I try to bathe in it it knocks my feet from under me."

"Why did Jordon put that 'Under New Management' sign in his shop window? I see he's still there?"

"Didn't you hear? He got married last week."

"What ever became of that girl you used to make love to in the hammock?"

"Oh, we fell out."

"No, daughter. I won't give you any money to buy new clothes."

"But, father, what am I going to do without a riding habit?"

"Get the walking habit."

Quonset---Answer to Housing Quandary?

One of the suggested solutions of the housing shortage is the Quonset hut, which proved so efficient for servicemen in all climes during the war. This sample, shown at Grand Rapids, Mich., is 20 by 36 feet, has living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms, bathroom, floor lining, wall panels, full plumbing. Hut costs around $1000, transformation into a five-room dwelling about $1700 more.

Here's the kitchen—modern and apparently roomy.

PRECAUTION

"Is this the fire station?"

"Yes."

"I have just had a new rock garden built, and I've put in some new plants, but—"

"Where's the fire?"

"Some of these new plants are very expensive and—"

"Look here, what you want is the flower shop."

"No, I don't. I was coming to that in a minute. You see my neighbor's house is on fire, and they asked me to call you, but I don't want your clumsy firemen stomping all over my garden when you come here."

The wayfarer knocked on the back door of the little farm house and begged for some task that might earn him a much-needed meal.

"Clear out!" shouted the lady of the house. "I ain't got no wood to chop. There ain't nothing you could do around here."

"Pardon me, madam," the man replied with quite dignity, "How about a few lessons in grammar?"

For the first time little Ann saw a mama cat carrying a kitten by the nape of the neck.

"Shame on you!" cried the child. "You aren't fit to be a mama. You are hardly fit to be a father."

"Sir, I would rather be right than be President," were Henry Clay's famous words.

Hitler Madman In Last Hours

Graphic Account Given by Hanna Reitsch Reveals Scenes in Bunker.

OBERURSEL, GERMANY. — A graphic eyewitness account of Adolf Hitler's last hours picturing the fuehrer as a raving madman, alternately rehearsing suicide and "directing" a phantom rescue army which had been wiped out days before, was reported by the Associated Press.

The dramatic description, often bordering on comic opera, was given to United States army investigators by Capt. Hanna Reitsch, German aviatrix, who flew the last plane out of Berlin.

The blonde 33-year-old pilot said Hitler and Martin Bormann, his missing deputy, had joined in a suicide pact a few hours before the fall of Berlin, but said she had left upon the fuehrer's orders before the suicides were carried out.

Tracing Hitler's actions as he and a little group of associates huddled in a bunker under the reichschancellery while the Russians closed in, she said the fuehrer, raving and ranting, repeatedly berated Hermann Goering, Heinrich Himmler and other Nazi leaders as traitors who deserted him in an attempt to save their necks.

As the intensity of the Russian artillery barrage increased, Captain Reitsch said, the shaking fuehrer, on the verge of collapse, called repeated suicide rehearsals while special SS (Elite Guard) men, charged with destroying the bodies, stood by.

Papers Melt in His Hands.

Until the last, however, she said Hitler pinned his hopes on the arrival of an army, commanded by a General Wenck, which he believed was driving up from the south to rescue him. This army, she learned later, had already been destroyed by the Russians.

"Hitler's manner and physical condition sank to lower depths," she said.

"He would stride about the shelter waving a road map that was fast disintegrating from the sweat of his hands, and planning Wenck's campaign. He was the picture of a man running almost blindly from wall to wall in his last retreat, waving papers that fluttered like leaves in his nervous, twitching hands, or sitting stooped and crumpled before his table to represent his nonexistent armies . . . like a young boy playing at war."

Hitler then told how he had had Goering arrested. Lt. Gen. Ritter von Grein, who had been flown to Berlin by Captain Reitsch on a frantic call from the fuehrer was to be Goering's successor, Hitler said.

No less dramatic than Hitler's actions were those of the group gathered in the besieged bunker with him. The fuehrer's propagandist, Joseph Goebbels, surrounded by his wife and six children, launched into bursts of oratory with all the theatrics of a ham actor.

Manicures Her Nails.

Hitler's mistress, Eva Braun, engaged most of the time in changing clothes and polishing her nails, remarked over and over again: "Poor, poor Adolf, deserted by every one, betrayed by all."

Bormann, now being tried in absentia at the war crimes trial in Nuernberg, sat at his desk, "recording the momentous events in the bunker for posterity."

Goebbels' children, ranging in age from 3 to 12, sang for "Uncle Fuehrer" and seemed to enjoy being "in the cave."

One of Hitler's "suicide councils" was called on the night of April 27, when the Russian bombardment reached its peak, Captain Reitsch said.

"All plans as to the destruction of the bodies of every one in the shelter were gone over," she declared, "and then every one made little speeches swearing allegiance to the fuehrer and to Germany."

The news of Himmler's armistice bid to the Allies on April 29, she said, came as "the greatest blow of all. Hitler raged as a madman . . . sank into a stupor and for a time the entire bunker was silent."

Emperor Hirohito Doffs Army and Navy Uniforms

TOKYO. — Emperor Hirohito no longer wears army or navy uniforms or his Samurai sword, the imperial ministry reported.

Instead, the Mikado has adopted a specially designed outfit similar to civilian uniforms which are widespread in Japan.

He wore a new rather plain dark blue uniform when he departed for Ise to report the end of the war to his ancestors' spirits at the shrine of the sun goddess.

Army Curbs Sale of Pens And Lighters in Germany

FRANKFURT, GERMANY.—The U. S. army announced that luxury items such as fountain pens and cigarette lighters in army post exchanges would be reserved for American military personnel only.

The new ruling was necessary, the army said, because non-military purchasers were buying up to 58 per cent of the fountain pens and 41 per cent of the lighters.

A cubic foot of ice weighs less than a cubic foot of water.

Str... ...churia Gi... ... Machinery

Russians and Chinese Reds Clean Out Factories.

CINHSIEN, MANCHURIA. — A jeep trip from the great wall to points within 50 miles of Mukden—a distance of more than 150 miles—disclosed that numerous factories have been stripped to the bare walls since the Japanese surrender.

Lt. Gen. Tu Li-ming, Chinese commander in chief for the northeast area, said the Russians and Chinese Communists had removed the equipment, while peasants had completed the job of picking clean the bones of plants which the Japanese had spent 14 years developing.

To restore the factories will take much money and years of work.

General Tu's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Chao Chi-shiang, and the secretary general for Manchuria, Prof. Yu Hsieh-chung, supported Yu's statement that the Russians and Communists had taken the equipment.

"The Russians took all of the important foreign made machinery from every factory and hospital I have seen," said Yu. "Then the Communists took most of the rest, and smashed what they could not carry away."

After the Communists, he added, came the fuel hungry peasants of this scantily forested area. Some factories were burned after being stripped. Nationalist forces took Chinhsien so quickly that it was little damaged. At Kinsi and Hingcheng, south of here, damage is more in evidence.

The Japanese had built the world's fourth largest sulphur plant at Kinsi, copying the American plant at Freeport, Texas. Tu said the Russians took so much of its machinery that it now is unworkable.

Professor Yu said reports he had received from Mukden and Harbin indicated that about 80 per cent of the industries in those two large cities had been taken away by the Russians.

Torpedo Missed Iowa With Roosevelt Aboard

WASHINGTON.—A navy spokesman revealed that a torpedo accidentally fired by a United States destroyer missed the battleship Iowa while the Iowa was carrying the late President Roosevelt to the Cairo conference.

The incident took place on November 14, 1943. The destroyer William D. Porter accidentally fired a torpedo which exploded some distance astern of the Iowa. The late President and the United States chiefs of staff were aboard the Iowa at the time en route to Cairo.

The navy spokesman said the explosion took place at a considerable distance from the ship and caused no injuries either to the ship or to its personnel.

An investigation board found certain personnel of the Porter inefficient in performance of duty and the officers and men concerned were "admonished."

Industry Sales Fell 2.3 Billion in Third Quarter

PHILADELPHIA, PA. — Sales of 15 major industry groups dropped nearly 2.3 billion dollars during the third quarter of this year, the securities and exchange commission said recently in a summarization of quarterly reports on sales data covering 274 corporations. Total sales, placed at $9,095,971,000 in the second quarter, dropped to $6,824,197,000.

The corporations' data covered three-month fiscal periods through April, May or June for the second quarter and through July, August or September for the third quarter.

Largest sales in any one industry group were those of 43 automobile parts and equipment companies, $1,991,330,000 in the second and $1,152,739,000 in the third quarter.

Reds Don't Wed Germans But Fraternize With Them

BERLIN. — Russian soldiers fraternize with German girls but are not marrying them, Col. J. Stepanov, Red army deputy member of Berlin's Kommandatura, said recently.

There is a marriage registry at Russian headquarters in suburban Karlshorst where any one can file intent to marry, but no one has applied, he said.

"There isn't one reason why a Russian soldier should marry a German girl," he said. "But there are lots of reasons why he shouldn't—great differences in language and culture, plenty of Russian girls looking for husbands and the fact that a Russian soldier may be here today and in Siberia tomorrow."

U. S. Will Return All Captives by 1946

WASHINGTON. — All Axis prisoners of war in the U. S. will be sent home by late winter or early spring of next year.

War department sources said prison camps in this country now hold nearly 400,000 prisoners. About 50,000 are Italians, 5,000 are Japs and the remainder German.

To Tax Away All Jap War Profits

MacArthur Orders 100 Per Cent Levy; Directive Strongly Worded.

TOKYO. — In a stern "war does not pay" directive General MacArthur has ordered the Japanese government to tax away the war profits of all Nipponese firms and individuals and make a capital levy ranging up to 70 per cent on corporate and private fortunes — including the imperial household's.

Accompanying the directive was a statement that said it would "result in a more equitable distribution of wealth than Japan has ever had."

In the most strongly worded order of the occupation to date, the supreme commander prohibited all government credit or subsidy activities pending sweeping reorganization of government finances, and directed the Japanese to submit a complete war profits tax program to the first session of the Diet in 1946.

Reaching down to the very soldiers and sailors who fought the war as well as the generals and admirals who directed it and the Zaibatsu (big family concerns) who supplied it, General MacArthur also ordered the government to terminate by February 1 the payment of any discharge allowances or service pensions to Japanese veterans "except compensation for physical disability limiting the recipient's ability to work."

Funds are Blocked.

General MacArthur told the Nipponese, "certain Japanese interests have used unjustified and aggressive war to illegally enrich themselves for many years. You will demonstrate to all Japanese that war is financially unprofitable by insuring that the tax includes the period not only dating from the perfidious attack on Pearl Harbor but includes the period to that date to the maximum extent possible."

The directive blocked government funds intended for payment of war indemnities to Japanese firms and individuals, on which the government still owes approximately 50 billion yen. It gave the government 30 days to recover all such war indemnity payments, in excess of 5,000 yen, which have been made since August 15.

The purpose of this freezing is to assure that funds are kept available for taxing purposes under the new war-profits tax. At the same time, the supreme commander said, efforts would be made to permit the Japanese farmer, laborer and small business man to retain their legitimate savings.

Generally the tax program contemplates a 100 per cent war profits tax on all war industries and a graduated tax up to 100 per cent on all other corporations and individuals, supplemented by a graduated capital levy up to at least 70 per cent.

No Exemptions.

The imperial household is included, since the directive specifies that there must be no exemptions.

The recapture of war profits and the capital levy are expected to yield well over 100 billion yen, thus providing "the financial basis for the reorganization of government finances toward peaceful ends."

General MacArthur described the directive's termination of all service pensions as "another major step toward lightening the deadweight burden which Japanese militarism forced the rest of the country to bear."

Supreme headquarters estimated that the abolition of military pensions would remove a yearly burden of 1.5 billion yen.

The ministry of finance informed supreme allied headquarters that the government had assumed war indemnity insurance liabilities totaling 56.5 billion yen, of which 50.5 billion remains unpaid. Of this total, war industries have claims for 13.5 billion yen, plus 12.6 billion yen for war risk insurance and 4.1 billion for cancellation of war contracts.

First Atom-Driven Auto Is Reported in Britain

LONDON. — The Daily Sketch said that an obscure Briton had driven an "atomic-powered" engineless automobile through the streets of London at ordinary speeds. No one in authority could confirm the report.

The newspaper identified the inventor as J. Wilson. It said the vehicle's mechanism consisted of a mysterious metal box three inches in diameter which had been fitted into the place ordinarily occupied by a gasoline engine. An invisible stream of atomic energy flowed from the box, the newspaper added.

Mr. Wilson has submitted blueprints of his invention to the ministry of fuel, the Daily Sketch said.

Swap Offer by Soldier Rejected by Churchill

LONDON, ENGLAND. — An English soldier in a letter to former Prime Minister Churchill offered to swap a first edition of the "Allied Post," first invasion newspaper of the war, for a landscape painted by Churchill during his recent vacation in Italy. "I regret that I must decline your request, as I am merely an amateur painter who paints for his own satisfaction," Churchill replied.

Winona Francis Wins Pi Omega Plaque For Top Senior Girl

Final exercises for the commencement period will be held at West Texas State at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, May 30. The following will be the program:

Processional, "Priest's March" (Aida-Verdi), faculty and graduates.

Invocation, the Rev. Hubert Thomson.

Address, S. A. Kerr, Jr., member of the Board of Regents from Jacksonville.

Overture, "Ded Freischuetz" (von Weber,) College Orchestra.

Granting of degrees, President J. A. Hill.

Alma Mater.

Processional.

"I believe that everything you do depends upon your faith in God. I believe in that faith and I commend it to you," Dr. Francis R. Pritchard, minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Amarillo, told the West Texas graduating class of 1946 when he delivered the Baccalaureate address Sunday morning.

In listing the three elements to be considered in choice of a vocation—a sense of the world's needs, confidence in the power of God, and a recognition of the powers within oneself—Dr. Pritchard advised that a person's life work should come to him as a call from God.

"Life goes on; we make our decisions and we must live by them," he declared.

With President J. A. Hill presiding over the services, the Rev. Joseph Findley of the First Christian Church of Canyon gave the invocation. For scripture reading of the morning, the Rev. Hubert Thomson of the Methodist Church of Canyon read the thirteenth chapter from First Corinthians.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Robert Jones of the Canyon Presbyterian Church. The College Choir, under the direction of Houston Bright, sang the anthem, Mozart's "Gloria—12th Mass."

Winona Francis of Silverton has been presented the Pi Omega award for being the most outstanding senior girl at West Texas State College in the Class of 1946. Her name will be engraved on a plaque which contains the names of several previous winners.

Announcement of the award was made at the annual Senior Day program Thursday by Pauline Winstead, president of the Pi Omega sorority. Miss Francis is president of Delta Zeta Chi sorority. She is specializing in business administration and is a member of Alpha Chi honor society.

Certificates were given thirteen members of the student Who's Who by Miss Edna Graham, chairman of the faculty committee of selection. These were Mary Lee Abbott of McLean, Ben Brotherton of Littlefield, E. Burroughs of Canyon, Annie Conatser of Canyon, Waldeen Dorris Thomson of Canyon, Gertrude Golladay of Plainview, Norma Lee Lantz of Canyon, P. C. Ledrick of Pampa, Roberta Medlen of Floydada, William Montgomery of Shamrock, Winnie Fred Ramage of Borger, Wayne Thomas of Adrian, and Pauline Winstead of Canyon.

Miss Golladay gave an original reading, "The Chosen Generation," and Margaret Bane of Muskogee, Okla., sang a solo, "When I Have Sung My Songs to You," accompanied by Lois Franklin of Happy. The traditional response of the seniors was conferred by Nan Markham of Tulia, class president, upon the junior president, Wayne Thomas of Adrian.

The seniors' gift was $100 for the college chapel fund. This will be used to purchase wood carving. Prof. and Mrs. Frank R. Phillips, class sponsors, were given a beautiful hassock in appreciation of their services.

The program was the first event of the 36th commencement of West Texas State.

We carved not a line . . . we raised not a stone, but we left him alone with his glory!

IT'S SIMPLE enough to go into the story of Memorial Day. Why we observe it . . . with what reverence we gather at the monument to the unknown soldier. But if our reverence ends there, we've accomplished nothing and all the fighting that's been done has been in vain; all that's been fought for becomes a dream, still in the far distant future. If we remember that the quest for peace does not end the day the last shot is fired, that we haven't achieved the glowing goal of PEACE with the end of hostilities, we shall have learned a masterful lesson. Let us resolve this day to take part in the peace plan for the future, to be aware of our government's attitudes and actions.
